

Tales of Hollywood

The early filmmakers greased city streets to cause car accidents which they could secretly film and save money on stuntmen. Charlie Chaplin was so cheap he used studio people to build his home rather than real home builders and it used to fall apart from the inside. Cowboys unable to find work on the screen rode through dusty Hollywood Streets shooting bullets at windows and lampposts. Hear Hollywood's Greatest Stories Come to Life! Tales of Hollywood is a unique audiobook which tells the great stories and origins of Hollywood, featuring little-known, wonderful anecdotes about stars such as Errol Flynn, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Lucille Ball, Shirley Temple, Walt Disney, and Boris Karloff, to name a few. Fully orchestrated background music and sound effects makes Tales of Hollywood a fantastic listening experience!
