

Blind Sight (The Celadon Circle)

Jordan has visions of monsters, demons, and death. Seventeen, orphaned, and born into the family business, she doesn't have friends, she doesn't have choices. Her uncle, older brothers, and a few annoying angels dominate her life, demanding she tow their lines and the punishment is severe when those lines are crossed. When Jordan is ordered to help hunt down a monster, she's not sure which she dreads more: the elusive, blood-thirsty creature or spending time in a cramped backwoods cabin with a brother who despises her. To make matters worse, a demon shows up and warns Jordan that she could be her family's next assignment. In a game between Good and Evil where God seems to have tapped out early, lines are blurred and not everything is as it seems. Jordan learns a little too late that the real monster is closer than she thinks.
