

Irish Folk-History Plays, Vol. 1 (Classic Reprint)

Scene: The scene is laid at A Imhuin in Ireland. Time, evening. Inside a richly decorated tent; a fire in brazier centre, a high candlestick at each side; a table with round loaves and wine. An opening at each side of tent. Finn is leading in Crania; she is wearing a golden dress and jewels. Music and joyous shouts are heard outside. Finn: My five hundred welcomes to you, Grania, coming into A Imhuin. Crania: I thank you, Finn. Finn: Who would be welcome if it was not the King of Ireland's daughter, that will be my wife to-morrow? Grania: Your people that were outside and on the road lighted all the district with fires as I came. Finn: We would have been better prepared if your coming was not so sudden at the last. You did not come too soon, that is a thing that could not happen. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and do not occur in the book.)
