Life and Adventures of Martin Chuzzlewit
By Charles Dickens Dickens considered Martin Chuzzlewit to be his best satire. The story revolves around Martin, who becomes an apprentice to greedy architect Seth Pecksniff. Instead of teaching his students, Seth lives off their tuition fees and has them do work that he claims to be his own. Seth Pecksniff has actually hired Martin to establish closer ties with the wealthy grandfather, thinking that this will gain Pecksniff a prominent place in the will.
